

Ending your professional relationship with a patient

1 In *Good medical practice we say:

- 62 You should end a professional relationship with a patient only when the breakdown of trust between you and the patient means you cannot provide good clinical care to the patient.

2 In this guidance, we explain how doctors can put this principle into practice. Serious or persistent failure to follow this guidance will put your registration at risk.

Things to consider

3 In rare circumstances, the trust between you and a patient may break down, for example, if the patient has:

- been violent, threatening or abusive to you or a colleague[†]
- stolen from you or the premises[‡]
- persistently acted inconsiderately or unreasonably
- made a sexual advance[§] to you.

4 You should not end a professional relationship with a patient solely because of a complaint the patient has made about you or your team, or because of the resource implications of the patient's care or treatment.

Before you end the relationship

5 Before you end a professional relationship with a patient you should:

- a warn the patient that you are considering ending the relationship
- b do what you can to restore the professional relationship
- c explore alternatives to ending the professional relationship
- d discuss the situation with an experienced colleague or your employer or contracting body and you must be satisfied that your reason for wanting to end the relationship is fair and does not discriminate against the patient (see paragraph 59 of Good medical practice).

* General Medical Council (2013) Good medical practice London, GMC.

† See Health Service Circular 2001/18 Withholding treatment from violent and abusive patients in NHS Trusts (www.dh.gov.uk/prod_consum_dh/groups/dh_digitalassets/@dh/@en/documents/digitalasset/dh_4012205.pdf).

‡ If you decide to inform the police about a patient you must follow our guidance on confidentiality. General Medical Council (2009) Confidentiality London, GMC.

§ You must also follow our guidance on maintaining a professional boundary between you and your patient (see paragraph 7). General Medical Council (2013) Maintaining a professional boundary between you and your patient London, GMC.

When you've made a decision to end the relationship

- 6 If you decide to end your professional relationship with a patient you must:
- a make sure the patient is told of your decision to end the professional relationship, and your reasons for doing so; where practical, the patient should be told in writing
 - b follow relevant guidance* and regulations
 - c record your decision to end the professional relationship – information recorded in the patient's records must be factual and objective, and should not include anything that could unfairly prejudice the patient's future treatment
 - d make sure arrangements are made promptly for the continuing care of the patient, and you must pass on the patient's records without delay†
 - e be prepared to justify your decision.

Closing or relocating your practice

- 7 If you are closing or relocating your practice, you should:
- a give advance notice
 - b make sure that arrangements are made for the continuing care of all your current patients, including the transfer (or appropriate management) of all patient records.

Further sources of information and advice

England

Department of Health

Health service circular 2000/001 Tackling violence towards GPs and their staff

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Lettersandcirculars/Healthservicecirculars/DH_4003798

British Medical Association – General Practitioners Committee (GPC)

Removal of patients from GP lists

www.bma.org.uk/-/media/Files/PDFs/Practical%20advice%20at%20work/Doctors%20as%20managers/gpremovepats0405.pdf

Medical Protection Society

Removing patients from the practice list (see also factsheets for all four UK countries)

www.medicalprotection.org/uk/your-practice-december-2012/removing-patients-from-the-practice-list

Medical Defence Union

www.the-mdu.com

Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman

Listening and Learning: the Ombudsman's review of complaint handling by the NHS in England 2010-11

www.ombudsman.org.uk/healthchp/downloads

Case studies on removal from lists

www.ombudsman.org.uk/healthchp/case-studies2/unfair-removal-from-gp-patient-lists

Case studies from the Ombudsman's review of complaint handling in England

www.ombudsman.org.uk/healthchp/case-studies2/communication-and-complaint-handling

* See Listening and Learning: the Ombudsman's review of complaint handling by the NHS in England 2010-11 (www.ombudsman.org.uk/healthchp/downloads).

† General Medical Council (2013) Good medical practice London, GMC, paragraph 44.

Northern Ireland

The Health and Personal Social Services (General Medical Services Contracts) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2004 – part two covers removal from GP lists in a range of scenarios

www.dhsspsni.gov.uk/no140_gms_contract_regs_bm3.pdf

Scotland

Medical and Dental Defence Union of Scotland (MDDUS)

Risk alert – think before removing patients (30 November 2011)

www.mddus.com/mddus/news-and-media/notice-board/november-2011/risk-alert---think-before-removing-patients.aspx

Scottish Online Appraisal Resource (SOAR) for GPs in Scotland

Section on relationships with patients including removal of patients from GP lists

www.scottishappraisal.scot.nhs.uk/toolkit/relationships-with-patients-\(gp-scot-1c\).aspx.aspx)

Published March 2013

© 2013 General Medical Council

The GMC is a charity registered in England and Wales (1089278) and Scotland (SC037750)

Code: GMC/EPRWP/0313